

Financial Responsibility For Emergency Medical Treatment for ILL / INJURED
Child

While Young Explorers Preschool Insurance Company provides co-insurance for certain injuries a child may incur while attending the center. The insurance carrier does cover any expense relating to child illness.

All reasonable efforts will be made by the center to reach you or an identified emergency contact person if your child is ill or injured. If staff is unable to reach you or an identified emergency contact person, and it is determined that the child's illness or injury requires immediate medical intervention, 911 will be called for assistance. In the case of illness emergency medical treatment and or an ambulance transport is the financial responsibility of the parent/guardian. The medical response until will bill you for the services rendered for your child.

You can help us avoid unnecessary calls to 911 by making certain the center has your correct telephone numbers. It is also very important that the center personnel are fully informed of any medical condition that might require attention beyond normal First Aid procedures.
